Racers from All Sections of Virginia and Adjacent States Coming Here.

Horse centres in Richmond and throughout the whole of the State of Virginia are stirred by the first real Virginia horse show to be held in Richmond by the Virginia Racing and Horse Show Association on May 15, 17 and 18. New York, Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia have annually given their citizens the first of ways provided by an exhibition of the choicest specimens of the four-legged representatives of the sport of kings, and through the energy of the members of the Virginia Racing and Horse Show Association, this State will take its rank with the larger municipalities this year.

President Graves waxed enthusiastically over the coming meet, and is pouring in from every section of the State, as well as adjacent States, and Secretaries McComb and Lloyd are daily in receipt of applications for positions in the various events scheduled on the different dates. The rules governing the meet will be the rules used by the Hunt's Committee of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association and Jockey Club. Entrants have but two more days to signify their desire to participate in the meet.

Young Blitzen Entered.

A few of the horses booked for appearance here brings to mind the names of some of the best known lovers of the horse in the Southland.

Young Blitzen will be one of the representatives of Mr. Gabbright. Young Blitzen finished second in the Elk Ridge Steeplechase at Pimlico last Tuesday.

Particularly gratifying to lovers of the horse herabouts is the fact that Blitzen was bought at the spring meet last year, was trained at the Fair Grounds, where the coming meet will be held, and wintered in this city, all of which tends strongly to draw attention to the manifest advantages resulting from the care and training of the equine thoroughbred in the Virginia climate.

Mr. Gabbright will also be represented by another well-nigh perfect specimen of horseflesh—Bertha Barber.

Wayside, Western and Judge White will carry the colors of W. C. Saunders in the steeplechases, and Underdressed on the flats. C. J. Engelking has handed in the names of his prizes—Jockeywood and Baby Willie. Innumerable other local owners have handed in the names of the horses in whom their pride rests; a raft of first-class blue bloods will be sent from Petersburg and from other cities in Virginia.

Outside Horses Coming.

It is by no means intended that the show should include horses owned and trained in Virginia, and encouragement has been given to owners outside of the State to send in their names and those of their horses, but the meet is intended to be of great local significance, as well as of incontestable advantage to the many training centres in this State, almost unrivaled for its climatic excellence. The officials of the association believe that to every visitor will come a realization of the fact that Virginia is unusually blessed in the matter of dispensation of the sun's rays and an equable climate, and that these strong features are sure to prevail in the minds of men ever on the alert for the best spots in which their animals may be wintered and trained.

ORTH REPLIES TO CHARGES.

Lynchburg Manager Explains Incident of Signing Eddie Lynch.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LYNCHBURG, VA., May 1.—Replying to charges made by Manager McKevitt, of the Greensboro, Carolina Association team, that he tampered with players of that team when he attempted to secure the services of Eddie Lynch, Manager Al Orth, of the local team, declared to-day that there was nothing in the serious charge made by McKevitt.

"Lynch wired me that he had not signed with Greensboro and was a free agent," said Manager Orth. "I wired for terms, and hearing from him accepted them, as I would with any other player. Lynch then wired me for transportation, and this was sent him, and Lynch reported here and is still here. That is all there is to the whole transaction. I have never been able to get the officers of the Greensboro Association that Lynch was not tampered with."

Queries and Answers

Sporting Editor The Times-Dispatch:

Please answer the following in your Sunday issue: Trinity College and Furrum College were scheduled to play a game on April 23. Both teams appeared on the field, but on account of trouble with the faculty of their institution the Furrum players were unable to play the game, and the match was forfeited to Trinity by a score of 9 to 0. A bet was made on the game. Who wins?

Oxford, N. C. LEE C. TAYLOR.
As the game was forfeited to Trinity the man who bet on that team wins.

Ketchel to Relinquish Title.

Ketchel has practically decided to relinquish his claim to the middleweight championship of the world. He won the title when he knocked out Bill Papke in California last year, and successfully defended it in the recent bout with Jack O'Brien. For the latter mill Ketchel found it a hard task to make the middleweight limit of 158 pounds, and since then he has taken on so much weight that he is inclined to the belief that he can never reduce to that figure again. In fact, Ketchel, now that he is matched with Jack Johnson for a twenty-round bout at Colma next October, has started to build up. He is eating three meals a day, and says he weighs even now close to 180 pounds. He will scale at about the same figure if Johnson fights him, and as he will find it impossible to get back into the middleweight class after this mill, he has decided to abandon his present title.

Young Corbett Shows Form.

Young Corbett showed a flash of his old-time form when he defeated Bert Keyes after ten rounds of hard fighting and thereby reversed the verdict of their fight six weeks ago. The bout was a fast one. The former champion surprised his friends by his showing. He forced the fighting in the majority of the rounds, and with few exceptions showed good judgment of distance. He disregarded Keyes' dangerous punches and kept his man moving all the time.

Moran to Meet Attell.

Owen Moran and Abe Attell will meet in a ten-round bout at the Fairmont A. C. on May 7.
